WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Are you a CTE instructor, school counselor, special education facilitator or paraeducator? For over 40 years, PACTESP has been an organization made up of career and technical educators who work with special populations students. When the Perkins Act focused on handicapped and disadvantaged populations, PACTESP was established to focus on those same students. Through the years, the organization has evolved with the Perkins Act to support educators who serve students from all special populations – students with disabilities, nontraditional students, economically disadvantaged students, single parents and single pregnant women and students with limited English proficiency. The PACTESP Conference provides a professional development opportunity focused specifically on topics for educators who work with these student populations. If this describes your role, attend this Conference – a professional development experience focused on YOU.
